STK for your personal machine

In any web browser, please download the following to your Desktop:

http://ccar.colorado.edu/files/STK1013OneClickInstall.exe

Once you have STK downloaded on your machine, install the software.

Here is the procedure for getting the right license:

Go into the STK Support tools and run the License manager. You should see three fields at the bottom of the screen. What we need from each person is:

- Full name of Student

- CU email address

- Course number for the class

- AGI Product HostID.

   Very important: Make sure you grab the host ID from the Local area connection and NOT from the wireless!

- Registration ID

- Current Windows Version (Vista, XP, 7, 8, 10) (STK only runs in Windows)

Email Steve Hart at Steven.Hart@colorado.edu and put the course title in the subject line. From there, Steve can create the license and send it directly to you.

These license will be temporary and the expiration date will be in the email sent to you. It should be long enough to last until the course completion. Also, each license is hardware specific so it will only work on the exact systems that the student uses to get the hostID and reg ID. We only have a limited number of licenses. Once one is generated, it can not be "uncreated" and it uses up a license that could be used by others. Please verify that you get the correct hostID the first time.
